

Kingston College is now offering free level 2 NVQ courses in Cleaning and Support services through the Government's Train to Gain skills initiative. We are currently accepting students from all over greater London. The courses are fully funded by the government and there is no employer contributions. The training is tailored to individual businesses and workplace based meaning no employee downtime.

There is a severe skills shortage in the cleaning industry, and this initiative is quite a good opportunity for those in the cleaning industry to gain valuable training and qualifications. The NVQ is designed to be all encompassing, as there are two mandatory units dealing with health and safety and service delivery combined with a number of optional units such as - Support the work of the team, Develop and maintain positive working relationships with customers and working at heights. There is definitely scope within the course to appeal to all cleaning practitioners.

NVQ's are a great way to improve employee performance, awareness and retention while also providing a valuable qualification for employee's themselves. It's a great initiative for everyone involved.

I'm available for any questions or queries you may have regarding the course.

Kind Regards,

Mathew Casey
Senior Skills Broker

Kingston College
Kingston upon Thames
Kingston Hall Rd.
Surrey, KT1 2AQ
Ph. 07767750571
mathew.casey@kingston-college.ac.uk